The Lifesaving Society – Canada’s lifeguarding expert – has been saving lives in Canada for 100 years through its training programs, Water Smart® drowning prevention campaign, and safety management services. Over 1,200,000 Canadians participate annually in the Society’s swimming, lifesaving, lifeguard and leadership programs. Lifesaving sport is the only sport that has been developed based on humanitarian principles. The Society is the governing body for lifesaving sport – a sport recognized by the IOC and the Commonwealth Games Federation.
